

CRAIG FALICO

Residential Real Estate Specialist

Craig Fallico is one of a kind. He has been a realtor, teacher, and coach simultaneously from 1981 to 2016, and he excelled at all three careers. In his words, they “compliment each other perfectly. They required educating people whom you care about.” Craig takes the time to get to know his clients and truly cares about them and their dreams. Once the relationship is established, he puts his 35+ years of experience to work for them and the end result is nothing short of perfect. He has built his three decades of success on hard work, integrity, and honesty. And his accolades only continue to grow. Craig was born and raised on the Northwest side of Chicago and has lived most of his life in Park Ridge. But ask him sometime about the time he spent living in Madrid and Sevilla, Spain. Craig is fluent in Spanish and his goal is to visit every Spanish-speaking country in the world (17 down, 4 to go).

Craig’s father had been in the real estate business since the 1960s, so Craig learned the ropes early on. He worked side by side with his father for many years as the principals of Fallico Real Estate. That business closed when his father took ill, but the family business continues at Dream Town, as Craig and his son, Nick, now work as a team. Craig specializes in residential and investment properties (2–12 flats). He is energized by Dream Town’s professional and supportive atmosphere, focus on business development, and cutting-edge marketing strategies. Craig was featured in Chicago Agent Magazine for Who’s Who in Real Estate and has been the number one producer out of Dream Town’s Northwest Side office.
